CULTURAL CHANGES OF THE MIGRANTS FAMILIES

Dr. Manikamma N. Sultanpur & Sri. C.V. Kalaburagi

ABSTRACT

Migration over the last two decades has been one of the most fashionable changes in the Asian region. This is a study about the migrant cultural change in Indian origins. However, the cultures as we know they are the consequence of centuries of migration. The research is based on surveys of 300 men respondents. Collected the respondent's opinion on occupational factor and family status. With the dramatic change in national cultures associated with such migration, the study sought to identify the emergence of differences over time in the occupational behaviour and adherence to traditional family values. The main finding of the study is that these migrants duration is less than five years or within ten years i.e. (84.7%) percent of the respondents who belong to this category.

INTERNATIONAL INDIVIDUAL MIGRATION: AND SOCIETAL CHALLENGES

Dr. Manikamma N, Sultapur

ABSTRACT

Whenever a person move away from his family and start dwelling with new culture or the opportunity happens to be intentionally, unintentionally or forcibly it does not matter but what is more important is; what are the new things the individual has learned or what are the ideological changes he has adapted being at the new atmosphere. Families also developed strategies for minimizing and diversifying risks and to these ends networks had a central role. The aim of the study was to understand the behavioural changes of individuals and family due international migration in terms of life style, likes and dislikes, cultural changes and so on. To meet the study purpose 500 international migrants

EMPOWERMENT OF WOMEN THROUGH DECISION MAKING

Dr. Manikamma N. Sultanpur & Dr. A.G. Khan

Abstract

Empowerment of women refers to aware of socio psycho-cultural and political injustice that is prevailing in the society against women. Women empowerment is a prerequisite to gender equality and development. The process of empowerment should start from our own home. Women's position in the household determines women's autonomy in the family. It is worth to examine whether women can decide about household matters like buying jewellery, having access to money, having mobility to go to market or relative's house or getting health care facilities. Aim: to understand the Empowerment of Women through Household Decision Making.

Methods and material: Data have been utilized both primary and secondary, primary data collected through structured questionnaire and secondary data were collected through published articles, books and internet. And Used frequency and chi square technique for the

INTRODUCTION

In sociology organization is understood as planned, synchronized and purposeful action of human beings to hypothesize or gather a common tangible or intangible product. Sociology distinguishes the term organization into planned formal and unplanned informal i.e., spontaneously formed organizations. Sociology analyzes organizations in the first line from an institutional perspective. In this sense, organization is a permanent arrangement of elements. These elements and their actions are determined by strategies so that a certain task can be fulfilled through a system of coordinated division of labour. An organization is defined by the elements that are part of it and its communication its autonomy and its rules of action compared to outside events. By coordinated and arranged cooperation of the elements, the organization is able to solve tasks that lie beyond the abilities of the single elements. The price paid by the elements is the limitation of the degrees of freedom of the elements. Advantages of organizations are enhancement, addition mixture of different features, and extension. Disadvantages can be lifelessness through co-ordination and loss

INTRODUCTION

The internal quality assurance device of the institution for planning, guiding and monitoring Quality Assurance (QA) and Quality Improvement (QE) activities of the colleges. Framing regulations on minimum standards of education, checking developments of the college and university education. Expanding grants to the Universities and Colleges. To establish the standards of the higher educational institutions it has established the National Assessment and Accreditation Council as an autonomous body. NAAC is assigned with the task of performance evaluation, assessment and accreditation of Universities and Colleges in the country. The philosophy of NAAC is enabling rather than disciplinary or judgmental, so that all higher education institutions should develop higher learning are empowered to maximize their resources, opportunities and capabilities. So the IQAC main objectives to ensure continuous improvement in the entire academic process of the institution, connected with higher education with parents, teachers, staff, would be employers, funding agencies and society in general, of its own quality and probability and contributing the progress to the entire process of the institution.

Objective of the study: To evaluate the contribution of IQAC in quality maintenance of higher education institution.

communication technologies (ICT) have become commonplace entities in all aspects of the society. The use of ICT in education lends itself to more student-centered learning settings and often this creates more tensions for some teachers and students. But with the world moving rapidly into digital media and information, the role of ICT in education is becoming more and more important and this importance will continue to grow and develop in the 21st century. The paper highlights the various impacts of ICT on contemporary higher education and explores

The past India like many other developing countries in the world is witnessing the rapid aging of its population. Urbanization, modernization and globalization have led to change in the economic structure, the erosion of societal values, weakening of social values, and social institutions such as the joint family. In this changing economic and social milieu, the younger generation is searching for new identities encompassing economic independence and redefined social roles within, as well as outside, the family. The changing economic structure has reduced the dependence of rural families on land which has provided strength to bonds between generations. One of the biggest decisions a family may have to make is to determine how to provide care for elderly parents or relatives when those elders are no longer able to live independently. Families resolve this complex and emotionally charged issue in a variety of ways. Some families find ways to provide elders with sufficient assistance such that they are able to safely remain in their own homes. Other families move their elders in with them so as to personally provide care. Still other families find that placing their elder into a care facility is the best solution for all involved. Finding appropriate and affordable elder care and assistance is
