Plenary Session-1

"Industry and Technology for sustainable Development"

Immediately following the Inaugural Session, a thought-provoking seminar on the theme "Role of the industry and technology in viksit Bharat" was conducted, featuring esteemed experts from various academic and medical institutions. The session aimed to deepen the understanding of the pivotal role that AYUSH (Ayurveda, Yoga & Naturopathy, Unani, Siddha, and Homeopathy) can play in building a healthier and self-reliant India.

Dr. Bhadrappa Haralayya, Professor and Head of the MBA Department at Appa

Engineering College, Bidar, delivered on "TRANSFORMING INDIA: THE VITAL ROLE OF TECHNOLOGY AND UNDUSTRY IN A VIKSIT BHARAT" an insightful talk emphasizing the Viksit Bharat 2047 envisions a developed India by the year 2047, focused on economic prosperity, social justice, environmental sustainability, and technological advancement. India has made remarkable strides in digital infrastructure, such as the Unified Payments Interface (UPI), which handles over 9 billion transactions monthly, and Aadhaar, providing a universal digital identity. The nation is investing heavily in technologies like AI, robotics, and blockchain, and platforms like SWAYAM, DIKSHA, and e-Sanjeevani are transforming education and healthcare, particularly in rural areas. The Make in India initiative and MSMEs contribute significantly to India's GDP, while policies such as PLI schemes foster manufacturing growth, especially in key sectors like electronics and electric vehicles. Furthermore, India's thriving startup ecosystem is among the largest globally, with over 100 unicorns as of 2025.

In education, the National Education Policy (NEP) is promoting flexibility, critical thinking, and research orientation, with IITs, IIMs, and other institutions nurturing innovation and industry collaborations. The youth of India play a pivotal role, with initiatives like PMKVY and Skill India preparing them for future challenges. Programs like the Atal Innovation Mission and Smart India Hackathon encourage student-led problem-solving, while NSS and youth-led organizations contribute to community development. The government has launched various initiatives such as Gati Shakti, aimed at building integrated infrastructure for efficient logistics and reduced costs, boosting India's export potential. However, challenges such as unequal access to digital resources, underrepresentation of women in STEM, and balancing industrial growth with sustainability remain. India's Vision for 2047 is one of a globally respected, innovation-led, sustainable nation, where every citizen has access to equal opportunities. The call to action is clear: students must innovate and solve, educators must inspire and lead, and institutions must collaborate and nurture talent. Together, we can achieve Viksit Bharat 2047, as Swami Vivekananda once said, "Arise, awake, and stop not till the goal is reached."

Dr. Rajendra Konda, Principal, Smt. V.G. Women's College, Gulbarga, served as a distinguished resource person. He elaborated on the role of educational institutions in promoting AYUSH awareness among youth and emphasized the need for curriculum integration to foster future-ready citizens.

Chair: Prof. Dasharat Nainoor Principal GFGC Sulepeth delivered an insightful presentation highlighting the historical roots and modern relevance of AYUSH systems. He discussed how these ancient practices can be effectively adapted and integrated into today's healthcare and educational ecosystems to promote holistic well-being.

Dr.N.H Patil President of alumni association Gulbarga University, Kalaburagi who served as the Rapporteur. His efforts ensured that the key insights and outcomes of the session were recorded for future reference and dissemination. This seminar session was instrumental in highlighting the potential of India's traditional medical systems as a cornerstone for the nation's development vision Viksit Bharat by 2047.

In Plenary Session–II, the seminar continued on the theme "AYUSH for Viksit Bharat," focusing on the transformative potential of traditional health systems in shaping a self-reliant and developed India.

Dr. Abdul GAffar Taluka Health Officer from Chincholi, gave an insightful talk on the integration of the AYUSH (Ayurveda, Yoga, Unani, Siddha, and Homeopathy) health system with the modern healthcare system. His presentation focused on the potential benefits of combining the strengths of both systems to offer a more holistic and effective approach to healthcare.Mr. Gafar emphasized that AYUSH systems, with their focus on prevention, lifestyle management, and natural remedies, can complement modern medicine, which primarily focuses on treating diseases. He discussed how integrating these systems can provide more comprehensive patient care, addressing both the physical and emotional wellbeing of individuals. He also highlighted the growing importance of collaboration between AYUSH practitioners and modern healthcare providers in offering better healthcare services to the community, particularly in rural areas where access to healthcare facilities is limited. He spoke about the use of traditional practices like Ayurveda and Yoga for managing chronic conditions, improving immunity, and preventing lifestyle diseases, and how they can be effectively integrated with modern treatment modalities for enhanced outcomes. Moreover, Mr. Gafar mentioned that such integration could lead to the development of integrated treatment protocols that bring together the best of both worlds the evidence-based practices of modern medicine and the time-tested methods of the AYUSH system. He also highlighted the increasing recognition of AYUSH in public health initiatives, with the government incorporating these practices into the national health policy to provide more accessible and affordable healthcare options. In conclusion, Abdul Gafar stressed the need for more collaborative efforts between AYUSH practitioners and modern healthcare professionals, as well as the importance of promoting research and education in integrated healthcare. By embracing both systems, he suggested, India could enhance its overall healthcare delivery, ensuring a more patient-centered, sustainable, and inclusive approach to health.

Dr. Nayeemunnisa MD (Homeo), Professor and Head, Department of Practice of Medicine, provided a comprehensive overview of the contributions of Homeopathy in preventive and curative healthcare. She stressed the importance of public awareness and accessibility of AYUSH systems in rural and underserved regions. Specifically focusing on the role of Homeopathy in geriatric care. In her presentation, titled "Safe Shoulder of Homeopathy in Geriatrics", she highlighted how Homeopathy can offer safe and effective treatment options for elderly individuals, addressing the unique health challenges they face. Resource person has discussed the various benefits of Homeopathic remedies in managing age-related health conditions, including chronic ailments, mobility issues, cognitive decline, and more. Emphasizing the holistic approach of Homeopathy, she explained that treatments are tailored to the individual's physical, emotional, and mental health, making it particularly suitable for the elderly population. Homeopathy is known for its minimal side effects, which makes it a safer alternative compared to many conventional treatments, especially for seniors who often have multiple comorbidities and are on polypharmacy.

She also highlighted the preventive aspects of Homeopathy in geriatrics, stressing its potential in boosting immunity, improving overall well-being, and preventing the onset of common age-related conditions like arthritis, diabetes, and cardiovascular diseases. By addressing the root causes of health issues rather than just alleviating symptoms, Homeopathy offers long-term benefits to elderly patients. The resource person concluded by reaffirming the importance of integrating Homeopathy into geriatric healthcare, ensuring that elderly individuals receive comprehensive, personalized, and safe treatment options for maintaining their health and quality of life.

Dr. G. Swathi, Assistant Professor, Department of Zoology, GFGC Nagari, Andhra Pradesh, shared an interdisciplinary perspective, exploring the biological basis and scientific relevance of AYUSH practices in improving immunity and public health outcomes.

Nature's Wisdom for a Healthy Mind: Herbal Bioactives in Neurological Care: Herbal bioactive components have garnered significant attention for their potential neuroprotective effects in treating various neurological disorders. These disorders, including Alzheimer's Disease, Parkinson's Disease, Multiple Sclerosis, Epilepsy, and mood disorders like Depression and Anxiety, are characterized by neurodegeneration, inflammation, and oxidative stress, areas where herbal remedies show promise.

For Alzheimer's Disease, certain herbs exhibit anti-amyloidogenic and anti-tau properties, alongside anti-inflammatory and antioxidant effects, potentially slowing the disease's progression. In Parkinson's Disease, herbal components demonstrate antioxidant and anti-inflammatory actions, with some studies suggesting a reduction in alpha-synuclein aggregation, a protein linked to the disease. Multiple Sclerosis (MS) is also addressed by herbs with anti-inflammatory and immunomodulatory effects, which may help manage MS-related inflammation and immune responses. For Stroke, antioxidants and anti-inflammatory compounds from herbs may reduce neuronal damage. Similarly, in Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI), compounds like curculmas have shown promise in reducing inflammation and oxidative stress. Depression and Anxiety disorders might also benefit from herbal remedies, with curcumin suggesting antidepressant-like effects. The primary objectives of research in this area include identifying bioactive compounds in herbal remedies with neuroprotective properties, understanding their mechanisms of action, and evaluating their safety and efficacy. The hypothesis driving this research is that specific herbal remedies containing targeted bioactive compounds will offer therapeutic benefits and neuroprotective effects for these neurological disorders.

Notable examples of such herbs include Ashwagandha, an adaptogen that reduces stress and has neuroprotective properties. It may alleviate anxiety and improve cognitive function by modulating the GABAergic system and protecting neurons from oxidative stress and inflammation. Gotu Kola, traditionally used for cognitive enhancement, may improve memory, learning, and mood through its promotion of nerve growth factor (NGF) and its antioxidant and anti-inflammatory effects. Both herbs contain key bioactive compounds, such as triterpenoid saponins in Ashwagandha and asiaticoside in Gotu Kola, which are believed to contribute to their neuroprotective actions. In conclusion, herbal bioactives offer a promising avenue for treating neurological disorders, providing potential benefits in neuroprotection and therapeutic efficacy. The research into these natural remedies could pave the way for innovative and complementary approaches to managing neurological health.

The first Session Chair Dr. A.G. Khan, Associate Professor at GFGC Chittapur, delivered an insightful presentation highlighting the historical roots and modern relevance of AYUSH systems. He discussed how these ancient practices can be effectively adapted and integrated into today's healthcare and educational ecosystems to promote holistic well-being. In the session, Resource person Dr. Nayeemunnisa, MD Homeopathic, Professor and Head of the Department of Practice of Medicine, focused on the pivotal role of Homeopathy in geriatric care, highlighting its contributions to both preventive and curative healthcare. Her presentation, titled "Safe Shoulder of Homeopathy in Geriatrics," underscored the significant benefits of Homeopathy for elderly patients, particularly in managing the complex health issues that arise with aging. She discussed how Homeopathic treatments offer safe, personalized, and holistic care, addressing not just the physical symptoms but also the emotional and mental well-being of the elderly, making it an ideal choice for geriatric healthcare.

Dr. G. Swathi, Assistant Professor, Department of Zoology, GFGC Nagari, Andhra Pradesh, second resource person of the session also discussed the growing interest in Nature's Wisdom for a Healthy Mind, focusing on the potential of herbal bioactive components in treating neurological disorders. Herbal remedies have shown promise in managing various neurodegenerative conditions like Alzheimer's Disease, Parkinson's Disease, Multiple Sclerosis, Epilepsy, and mood disorders such as Depression and Anxiety. These disorders are often associated with neurodegeneration, inflammation, and oxidative stress areas where herbal bioactives have demonstrated neuroprotective effects. For instance, in Alzheimer's Disease, certain herbs show anti-amyloidogenic and anti-tau properties, while in Parkinson's Disease, they help with antioxidant and anti-inflammatory actions, potentially preventing the aggregation of proteins involved in the disease. Similarly, in conditions like Epilepsy and Multiple Sclerosis, herbal treatments exhibit anti-inflammatory and immunomodulatory properties. The potential of these natural remedies is being explored as innovative and complementary approaches to managing neurological health, especially in aging populations, where the risk of such disorders increases. Together, these discussions highlight how both Homeopathy and herbal bioactives can contribute to enhancing the health and quality of life of elderly individuals, offering natural, safe, and effective alternatives to manage the challenges of aging and neurodegenerative diseases.

The second Session Co Chair, Dr. Jaikishan Thakur, Principal of SC/ST Residential GFGC, Gundepally, spoke on the importance of inclusive health practices. He emphasized the accessibility and affordability of AYUSH systems, especially for marginalized communities, and advocated for stronger policy support and grassroots-level implementation.

The session was meticulously documented by Miss Uma Patil, Secretary of the Alumni Association of Smt. C.B. Patil Degree College, Chincholi, who served as the Rapporteur. Her efforts ensured that the key insights and outcomes of the session were recorded for future reference and dissemination. Date24-04-2025 Timing:- 3:00 to 4:00

A total of 15 participants presented their research papers during the Second Technical Session held on 24th April 2025. The session featured a wide array of interdisciplinary studies, all aligning with the central theme of "Indian Knowledge Systems and AYUSH for Viksit Bharat." The presentations were based on a combination of primary and secondary data. Researchers conducted field visits and direct community interactions to collect firsthand, authentic data that provided practical insights into the traditional systems. These primary findings were further supported by extensive secondary research, which added academic rigor and theoretical depth to the studies. This dual approach ensured a well-rounded and credible contribution to the field. The session concluded with active Q&A and discussions on IKS, This session was skilfully documented and coordinated by the Session

Rapporteurs.

Their meticulous documentation and efficient coordination ensured that the session progressed smoothly, with each presentation receiving due attention and discussion. The rapporteurs captured critical observations and insights, contributing to the academic value and continuity of the conference proceedings. This session not only highlighted the growing scholarly engagement with India's traditional knowledge systems but also underscored the relevance of integrating such wisdom with contemporary academic and developmental frameworks key to achieving the vision of Viksit Bharat 2047.

Plenary Session – III: "INDIAN KNOWLEDGE SYSTEM"

Plenary Session–III was dedicated to deepening the understanding of India's intellectual and healthcare heritage through two interconnected themes: "Indian Knowledge System" The session featured esteemed scholars and practitioners who provided valuable insights into India's traditional wisdom and its relevance to modern nation-building.

Resource person of the Session Shri Ashok Patil, Senior Educationist from Chincholi, further expanded on the Indian Knowledge System, stressing the importance of reintroducing ancient Indian pedagogical methods in today's academic curriculum. He advocated for a holistic model of education rooted in Indian ethos to foster critical thinking and cultural pride among youth. Shri Ashok Patil, a Senior Educationist from Chincholi, was the resource person for the session and delivered a profound discussion on the Indian Knowledge System (IKS). He emphasized the importance of reintroducing ancient Indian pedagogical methods into modern academic curricula. Shri Patil drew attention to the rich heritage of India's education system, which is deeply rooted in philosophical, spiritual, and cultural teachings.

He discussed the significance of classical texts like the Puranas, Bhagavad Gita, Smritis, and Upanishads, which have been the cornerstone of Indian education for centuries. Shri Patil emphasized that these texts not only contain profound philosophical insights but also practical knowledge on ethics, governance, and personal development. He highlighted how incorporating these ancient texts into the curriculum can provide students with a holistic understanding of life and society, fostering both intellectual and moral growth. Furthermore, he highlighted the concepts of Shravan (listening), Samskar (values and character building), and Yoga (holistic well-being) as essential elements of the Indian knowledge system that can greatly benefit modern education. Shri Patil also stressed the Guru-Shishya Parampara (teacher-student tradition), which emphasizes a deep, personal connection between educators and learners, focusing on mentorship, knowledge transfer, and values.

In addition to the academic aspects, Shri Patil discussed the importance of instilling social concern, self-sacrifice, and service to society in today's youth. He called for a revival of the sense of duty and responsibility towards society that was prevalent in ancient India. He highlighted that the youth should be encouraged to take decisive actions in shaping the future of India, emphasizing the role of values and nationalistic spirit in determining the country's path forward. Shri Patil concluded by stressing that the youth of today hold the key to how India will stand in the future. By integrating the wisdom of the Indian Knowledge System with contemporary education, the nation can empower its young citizens to contribute meaningfully to India's growth and development in the coming years. He urged educational institutions to promote this balanced approach of combining tradition with modernity to build a progressive and enlightened society.

Resource person of the Session Dr. Umashankar, an AYUSH Doctor at the Taluk Hospital, Chincholi, presented a detailed seminar on "AYUSH for Viksit Bharat." He focused on the practical applications of AYUSH in rural healthcare delivery, emphasizing its affordability, preventive approach, and community acceptance. His insights underscored AYUSH's potential to serve as a pillar in achieving universal health coverage and national wellness. Dr. Umashankar, an AYUSH doctor at the Taluk Hospital in Chincholi, served as the resource person for the session and delivered a comprehensive seminar on "AYUSH for Viksit Bharat." In his presentation, Dr. Umashankar emphasized the vital role of AYUSH (Ayurveda, Yoga, Unani, Siddha, and Homeopathy) in contributing to India's vision of becoming a Viksit Bharat or a developed India by 2047. He discussed how AYUSH systems, with their focus on holistic and preventive healthcare, can significantly improve the overall well-being of the population. Dr. Umashankar highlighted the benefits of integrating traditional healing practices with modern healthcare strategies to address the health challenges facing India, especially in rural and underserved areas. He explored how AYUSH therapies could complement conventional medical treatments and provide sustainable, accessible, and affordable healthcare options to the masses.

Dr. Umashankar also shed light on the role of AYUSH in the prevention of lifestyle diseases, promoting mental wellness, and addressing emerging health issues like stress, anxiety, and chronic conditions. He emphasized the importance of leveraging these traditional systems to support India's growing healthcare infrastructure, especially in light of the increasing burden of non-communicable diseases and the aging population. In the context of Viksit Bharat, Dr. Umashankar's presentation illustrated how the integration of AYUSH can play a crucial part in achieving a healthier, more resilient India. By promoting wellness, preventive care, and alternative healing practices, AYUSH could contribute to the broader goal of sustainable and inclusive development, aligning with India's aspirations for global leadership in health and wellness by 2047.

Prof. Shindhe Jagannath R., Former Associate Professor, Department of Sociology, Gulbarga University (GUK), delivered a compelling lecture on the "Indian Knowledge System." As session chair covering all resource persons talk. He explored the sociological foundations of Indian traditions, highlighting how values, customs, and indigenous practices have contributed to societal harmony, ethical living, and intellectual advancement. His address emphasized the urgency of preserving and integrating these systems into contemporary education and public policy.

Shri Laxman Aounti Vice president of Alumni association who served as the Rapporteur. Her efforts ensured that the key insights and outcomes of the session were recorded for future reference and dissemination.

This session powerfully demonstrated how the Indian Knowledge System and AYUSH can together play a transformative role in realizing the vision of Viksit Bharat 2047, fostering a self-reliant, healthy, and culturally enriched society.

Shri Naganna S. Ghanti delivered speech on The Role of Indian Traditions in Achieving a Developed India

Shri Naganna S. Ghanti, our esteemed Chief Guest, delivered an inspiring and thought-provoking address on the vital role that Indian traditions play in shaping a Developed India (Viksit Bharat).

He began by emphasizing that India's civilizational wisdom, deeply rooted in its spiritual, cultural, and philosophical traditions, is not just a heritage of the past but a guiding force for the future. According to him, development should not be seen merely in terms of GDP or infrastructure, but as holistic progress encompassing moral, spiritual, ecological, and emotional well-being. He elaborated on several core aspects of Indian traditions that contribute to nation-building:

Value-Based Living, family system, Sustainability and Environmental Harmony, Traditional Knowledge Systems and Spiritual Resilience and Inner Strength. Indian Traditions like dharma, seva (selfless service), and satyam (truth) have been at the heart of Indian society. These values cultivate responsible citizenship and ethical governance, which are essential for sustainable development. Shri Ghanti highlighted how the Indian joint family system, mutual respect for elders, and community-centered practices foster social security and emotional stability aspects that are increasingly valuable in today's fast-paced world. Citing ancient practices such as Vruksha Devata (tree worship), water conservation rituals, and seasonal dietary customs, he stressed how Indian traditions have always promoted eco-friendly living, aligning with modern concepts of sustainable development.

He pointed out that disciplines such as Ayurveda, Yoga, Vastu Shastra, and indigenous agricultural practices carry immense potential for contributing to health, wellness, and innovation when integrated with modern science. Indian traditions foster a deep sense of self-awareness, mindfulness, and inner peace. These spiritual values, he said, are crucial for mental health, leadership, and resilience especially in times of crisis. Shri Ghanti concluded by stating that the path to a Viksit Bharat must be uniquely Indian drawing strength from our timeless traditions while embracing innovation and global progress. He called upon educators, youth, and policymakers to take pride in their heritage and use it as a foundation for building a self-reliant, inclusive, and enlightened India.

Way Forward: by Principal about Indian Knowledge System and AYUSH for Viksit Bharat

To achieve the goal of Viksit Bharat (Developed India), the Indian Knowledge System (IKS) and AYUSH (Ayurveda, Yoga & Naturopathy, Unani, Siddha, and Homeopathy) must be incorporated into the national development agenda. The following actions are crucial as we proceed: Including IKS and AYUSH concepts in curricula at the school and university levels can promote respect and appreciation of India's scientific and cultural legacy. It is necessary to encourage interdisciplinary research that connects traditional knowledge with contemporary science. Encouraging Evidence-Based Research, Clinical studies and thorough scientific validation are necessary to support AYUSH systems. Credibility and international acceptance can be increased by establishing Centers of Excellence and working with international research institutions.

Modern medicine can be enhanced by bolstering primary healthcare delivery through AYUSH methods. Public health strategies should incorporate wellness facilities, preventive care, and lifestyle therapies like yoga for Improving Public Health with AYUSH. Promoting new businesses and ideas based on Indian traditional knowledge, such as sustainable practices and herbal items, can strengthen the economy and provide jobs for Innovation and Entrepreneurship in IKS. To safeguard, advance, and institutionalize IKS and AYUSH, a strong policy framework is required. It is also necessary to protect biodiversity and traditional knowledge through the protection of intellectual property rights (IPR).it needs to y Support Polic for Institutional Framework. Soft power can be derived from India's wealth of traditional knowledge. India can bolster its global leadership by promoting AYUSH internationally through wellness tourism, education, and diplomacy. In conclusion, we may create a sustainable, inclusive, and culturally anchored Viksit Bharat by balancing the knowledge of the Indian Knowledge System and the comprehensive methods of AYUSH with contemporary developmental objectives.

FOREWORD

I'm pleased to hear from Dr. M. N. Sultanpur, the organizing secretary, that your efforts to gather full-length papers for presentation at the upcoming two-day National Conference "Indian Knowledge System and AYUSH for Viksit Bharat," sponsored by the ICSSR, in Chincholi on April 24 and 25, 2025, have received an overwhelmingly positive response. For all of us, this is a historic time because we are successfully implementing the academic session model of any international conference. Perhaps receiving a full-length paper is a practice at the ICSSR conference. However, by publishing them in conference proceedings and making the published copy accessible to the relevant parties, we are taking things a step further.

Delegates and participants eventually require a word of gratitude for their contributions and presentations of research publications, as well as for their fruitful conversations and recommendations of pertinent ideas. It will improve the subject matter and enable the teaching community and future research academics instill a few new research strategies.

The first edition of "Mission IKS 1947 Visoin AYUSH @ 2047," edited by Dr. M.N. Sultanpur, is a valuable contribution to the sociological study community. In addition to examining concepts on a number of related issues, this conference proceedings shed light on the researcher's interdisciplinary approach, which appears to be crucial in addressing contemporary society's problems. In this sense, the proceedings are important because they also highlighted recently emerging social issues and solutions that will pave the way for Viksit Bharat by 2047.

I congratulate Dr. M.N. Sultanpur for editing the chosen papers presented during the two-day National Conference of Sociology, which effectively brought out the conference proceedings. The objective of these conference proceedings will be fulfilled if it inspires sincere interest in applying social theory to the pressing issue on the one hand, and the guidance it provides to planners, policymakers, and other interested parties on the other.

PREFACE

Indian society is well-known for its traditional agrarian economy and occupational structure. Indian society has seen significant economic transformations since independence and the adoption of the Indian constitution, progressing from a simple to a complex economy. Indian civilization, which is renowned for its magnificent agrarian, environmentally friendly economy and has seen dynamic changes in the polity, has undergone transformation from traditional to modern, from pre-industrial to post-industrial and beyond. The twenty-first century has seen several developments, including advancements in technology and industrial growth in all areas of life.

Thirty Five scientific and research articles focusing on the transformation of social, political, and economic inclusion, education and skill development for Viksit Bharat, and the role of all Indians in achieving the vision of Viksit Bharat @ 2047 are included in the current conference proceedings, which are titled "Mision IKS 1947 Visoin AYUSH @ 2047." The articles also address the changing social empowerment in the future of the country, with the majority of them concentrating on the socio-economic political challenges of the Viksit Bharat vision and other related aspects. The role of local self-governance and the government in promoting environmentally friendly development for its residents was the subject of several of the pieces in this edited collection.

It's also important to note that the papers in this Conference proceeding attempt to examine the development activities from various perspectives and emphasize practical recommendations for the region's environmentally responsible economic advancement. The current conference proceedings have made significant attempts to establish solutions that work. It will be helpful to planners and organizers who work in the field of environmentally friendly developmental activities in order to do so more efficiently.

Lastly, I want to congratulate the authors and co-authors of the research articles that were submitted to the current conference proceedings. I trust their efforts to produce such important articles and conference proceedings that are more helpful in the field of "Mission IKS and Vision AYUSH @2047" in Indian society are serious and successful.

Dr. M.N. Sultanpur Organizing Secretary

FOREWORD

The ICSSR-sponsored two-day National Conference "Indian Knowledge System and AYUSH for Viksit Bharat," which will take place in Chincholi on April 24 and 25, 2025, has received overwhelmingly positive feedback regarding your efforts to gather full-length papers for presentation, said organizing secretary Dr. M. N. Sultanpur. We are all experiencing a historic moment as we are successfully implementing the academic session model of any international conference. Getting a full-length paper at the ICSSR meeting might be standard procedure. We are going one step further, though, by publishing them in conference proceedings and providing the necessary parties with access to the published copy.

Eventually, attendees and delegates need to express their appreciation for their contributions, research publication presentations, insightful discussions, and suggestions of relevant concepts. The topic matter will be enhanced, and future research scholars and the teaching community will be able to implement some new research techniques.

The Second edition of "Mission IKS 1947 Visoin AYUSH @ 2047," edited by Dr. M.N. Sultanpur, is a valuable contribution to the sociological study community. This conference proceedings not only examined thoughts on several linked concerns, but also illuminated the researcher's interdisciplinary approach, which seems to be essential in tackling the issues facing modern society. The hearings are significant in this regard since they brought to light new societal problems and their remedies, which would help create Viksit Bharat by 2047.

I congratulate Dr. M.N. Sultanpur for successfully highlighting the conference proceedings by editing the selected papers that were delivered during the two-day National Conference of Sociology. Inspiring genuine interest in applying social theory to the urgent problem on the one hand, and offering recommendations to planners, policymakers, and other interested parties on the other, will meet the goal of these conference proceedings.

PREFACE

The traditional agrarian economy and occupational structure of Indian society are widely recognized. Indian society has seen significant economic transformations since independence and the adoption of the Indian constitution, progressing from a simple to a complex economy. Indian culture has evolved from traditional to modern, from pre-industrial to post-industrial, and beyond. It is well known for its amazing agrarian, eco-friendly economy and has witnessed rapid changes in the polity. Among the many changes that have occurred in the twenty-first century are technological breakthroughs and the expansion of industry in every sphere of existence.

The current conference proceedings, entitled "Mision IKS 1947 Visoin AYUSH @ 2047," contain twenty scientific and research articles that address the transformation of social, political, and economic inclusion, education and skill development for Viksit Bharat, and the role of all Indians in achieving the vision of Viksit Bharat @ 2047. While most of the articles focus on the socio-economic political issues of the Viksit Bharat vision and other associated topics, they also discuss the evolving social empowerment in the nation's future. Some of the articles in this selected collection focused on how the government and local self-governance may support ecologically sustainable growth for its citizens.

It's also crucial to remember that the papers in this conference proceeding focus on useful suggestions for the region's environmentally conscious economic growth while attempting to analyze the development activities from a variety of angles. Efforts to find workable solutions have been undertaken in the current conference proceedings. Planners and organizers who engage in the field of environmentally friendly developmental activities will find it useful for increasing their efficiency.

Finally, I would like to express my gratitude to the authors and co-authors of the research articles that were included in the proceedings of the current conference. I have faith that they are making serious and fruitful efforts to publish such significant publications and conference proceedings that are more beneficial in the sphere of "Mission IKS and Vision AYUSH @2047" in Indian society.

Dr. M.N. Sultanpur Organizing Secretary
