STRATEGIES FOR CLASSWISE SEMINAR

INTRODUCTION: Seminars are often defined as small, discussion-based courses. Typically, students complete readings and assignments before the class and discuss major themes or topics during class. Often fewer than a dozen people. While seminars are interactive, they aren't usually hands-on. In seminar students lead the discussion. Teacher may introduce the topic and facilitate the conversation; the goal is to allow participants to think for themselves. When an instructor effectively facilitates rich discussion during class, their students are more apt to build upon the existing knowledge frameworks they continue to develop, and achieve better learning outcomes. These types of seminars may include elements of the debate. And the subsequent topic might take the form of an open-ended question rather than a predetermined conclusion.

The Department of Sociology had organized class wise seminar for all semester students. Seminar can mean a course with different student speakers at each class. It can also mean a small, discussion-based course. In a seminar course, students do assigned reading and then, under guidance and direction, cope clearly with the ideas what they have in particular read. They can improve their language, writing, reading, imagination and presentation skills. So seminars have an important role to play in the curriculum.

OBJECTIVES OF THE CONDUCTING CLASS SEMINAR.

- students gain the questioning skills, Skills of Integrative Discussion through the process of seminar
- To build on the existing knowledge with changing knowledge related to education and culture.
- To enrich students' academic performance with critical evaluation.

Department of Sociology

PROCEEDINGS OF CLASSWISE SEMINAR

Department of Sociology have planned and organized class seminar for all BA. I, II and B.A Vth semester students to improve their language, reading, writing and presentation skills. We also encourage them to learn their mistakes and improve their seminar presentation skills. It is actually a great chance for the students to improve their skills within their curriculum by participating in class seminar by choosing their interested topic related to sociology subject. So seminars have an important role to play in the curriculum. Students were participated actively in presentation and motivating listeners to accept a new idea, alter an existing opinion, or act on a given premise. Students first thoroughly understand the topic before giving presentation i.e. mastery on topic.
